

2023 JBSA MILLIONHEIR

Tshegofatso Samuel Molefi, an exemplar of Joseph Business School Africa (JBSA) principles, has soared to remarkable heights in the business realm. As the driving force behind Modi Mining (Pty) Ltd, specializing in contract mining services for both underground and surface sectors, Molefi has navigated the complexities of the industry with exceptional skill and acumen. Under the influence of teachings interwoven with the Word of God received at JBSA, Molefi's company achieved a notable R250 million in the year ending 2023, and the trajectory continues to ascend.

The projected revenue for the year ending February 2024 stands at an impressive R500 million, with even more ambitious projections for the year ending 2025, reaching an extraordinary R1 billion. Molefi's success stands as a testament to the transformative power of JBSA, shaping entrepreneurs who not only thrive in business but also carry forth a spirit of ethical leadership guided by biblical principles.

Beyond individual success stories like Tshegofatso Samuel Molefi's, Joseph Business School Africa (JBSA) is on a mission to cultivate a cadre of godly entrepreneurs who serve as catalysts for positive transformation in communities.

The teachings at JBSA go beyond business skills, instilling a sense of social responsibility and a commitment to turning dislocated places into thriving gardens of Eden. Graduates like Molefi embody this ethos by not only achieving remarkable business milestones but also contributing to the upliftment of their communities. JBSA's vision of nurturing ethical, godly entrepreneurs who impact society is a beacon guiding students towards a purpose-driven approach to business, fostering not only financial success but also meaningful contributions to the well-being of communities.
