Josephine Makulane's entrepreneurial journey embodies the transformative power of the Joseph Business School Africa. Starting with no business, Josephine embarked on a remarkable trajectory that underscores the impact of JBSA's teachings.

The turning point in Josephine's journey occurred after attending Dr. Bill's conference, an experience that served as a catalyst for her growth. This encounter equipped her with a renewed perspective and a solid foundation in business principles. The subsequent empowerment gained from JBSA propelled Josephine to participate in an entrepreneurship competition, where she not only competed but excelled, securing a position among the top 10 contestants.

The competition became a crucible where Josephine's skills were tested, and her vision sharpened. Beyond the manufacturing realm of IBR and Iron Corrugated metal roofing sheets, she discerned opportunities in the broader construction industry. Her expanded vision now includes supplying construction materials and undertaking project subcontracting.

As Josephine moves forward, her clear vision, fueled by the JBSA experience, positions her as an entrepreneur poised to make a significant impact, not only in manufacturing but also in the broader landscape of construction and infrastructure development. Her story serves as an inspiration, reflecting the school's commitment to molding visionaries capable of transforming industries and communities alike.
