

A MAN BY THE NAME OF SHAWN BOLZ

wrote a book where he was transported to heaven and taken to a huge warehouse. It was so vast that he could not find the room's perimeters. He couldn't distinguish the ceilings or walls, the structure was so immense.

This is an extract from his book:

"An angel who oversaw the storehouse was assigned to show me around. 'What is this place?' I asked. His eyes lit up. He smiled and replied, 'This is the storehouse of heaven. Every provision that will ever be needed in this age for Jesus to receive the fullness of His inheritance is here, ready and waiting for those who would partner with Him and call it forth.'"

He saw different departments:

- The Department of Creative Miracles
- Heavenly Manna
- Rooms of Divine Architecture
- The Creative Invention Section
- Heaven's music storeroom...

clothing, farming, and education with creative teaching.
